ADVERTISING MANAGER FOR DOELGER VANISHES; POLICE INVESTIGATING

Ralph Lawrence, 30, of 20 Lynnewood drive, advertising man for Contractor Henry Doelger, has been missing from his home since Tuesday, August 25th. The authority for this statement is his wife, Mrs. Alice Lawrence.

Daly City police are investigating Lawrence's disappearance. The authority for this statement is Police Chief Roland Petrocchi.

The St. Paul Mercury Indemnity Co., which has a "blanket bond" on all Doelger employees, is interested in the missing man. Ice stated that he has been in court for the past several days.

John Poncetta, vice-president of the Doelger company, was not available for comment on the matter. His secretary stated that all actions taken by the Doelger company would be reported by Poncetta.

Daly City Cop Nabs Trio In Stolen Car

An alert Daly City policeman apprehended a young woman and two young men while they were sleeping in a car that was reportedly stolen by burglars who robbed a San Francisco home of $5000 in loot and the auto.

Patrolman John Coleman discovered the trio Wednesday morning at 2:45 a.m. parked at Thornton beach.

They are: Mrs. Maryana P. MacMillan, 23, her brother John F. Hale, 20, and Manuel Romero.

Coleman became suspicious when he discovered the three people sleeping in the car.

Checking out the car's license number, he found that the car had been stolen from the St. Francis Wood's home of Robert B. Hamill, 305 Yerba Buena avenue.

Police reported that the burglars piled jewelry, silverware, and family household appliances into the car and drove off.

A few of the stolen articles were found in the car in which the trio were sleeping.

According to Andersen, the total cost of the signals will be $106,600 with the additional money provided by the state.

At the present time, a plan for the three-way signals is being prepared and it should be ready some time in October, Andersen declared.

In a later campaign, Sgt. Farras was thrown 15 feet into the air by an exploding bomb and received shrapnel wounds in the stomach and arm.

According to Farras' uncle, John Sacaldasis, he attributes the saving of his life to the Army protective vest that he wore at the time. Again Farras remained on the front line.

Sgt. Farras received the Silver Star twice and two purple hearts. An army career, man he has served with the U. S. Army for twelve years.

Markovich reported that he and Bob Hunter are putting the finishing touches on the report, and that as soon as some of the available off-street parking is photographed, the report will be ready.

At the present time, Markovich is contacting near-by cities to see what solution they are accepting to the parking problem. He reported that he has contacted cities as far north as Santa Rosa and as far south as San Jose.

PLANNING COMMISSION WILL MEET TUESDAY NIGHT, SEPTEMBER 8th

Sanford Vickers, member of the Daly City planning commission, announced this week that the commission will meet on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the City Hall. Vickers said that the members of the commission would welcome additions to the agenda and take care of them if possible. He predicted that there would be some additions because it has been a while since the commission met.

Matters to come before the commission as the matter now stands are:

A rezoning on Mission street requested by Thomas Mitchell. The purpose of this is to allow the construction of an apartment building and the zoning will change from R-1 to R-2, if approved by the city council after study by the planning commission.

Mrs. D. Garabaldi White, 1214 Buick avenue, San Mateo, has requested study of the rezoning of two blocks in the $75 Homestead tract. Her request would change the two blocks from R-2 to commercial. This would not allow heavy commercial, but stores, motels and offices.

Jefferson Elementary school district has made a request that Daly City annex the two blocks from Lausanne to Orange and from Chester to Market. This property is adjacent to the substation which is under construction by the PG&E.

Part of the meeting will be devoted to the study of an adaptable subdivision plan for Daly City which must be prepared in compliance with the state legislature's recent edict, Vickers said.

Superintendent Tormey Discusses Tax Rates

Twelve of the school districts of San Mateo county have reduced their general purpose tax rate for 1953-54 in comparison with 1952-53 tax rates, according to County Superintendent of Schools James R. Tormey. Three of the districts show no change in general purpose tax rate; 14 show increases and one district will have no tax rate this year. (This latter district is the Alpine school district whose children will be educated by the La Honda district with a subsequent payment by Alpine in the next fiscal year.)

Tormey pointed out, however, that while 12 districts showed decreases in the general purpose tax rate, in most cases, the redemption of bonds voted by the people in those districts and repayment on State building aids cancelled out the reductions in general purpose taxes. Combining the general purpose bond interest and redemption and repayment on State building aid of the 29 districts collecting taxes this year, there is a net increase, frequently small, in 27 of the districts, with only two showing a net decrease.

"Many of the districts which attempted to reduce tax rates last year," said Tormey, "were forced to increase them this year in the face of continuing increases in enrollment. Obviously, if there were no school children, there would be no schools and hence no school taxes. More children make increased expenditures inevitable."

BILL AND REPORTS HAVE BROUGHT NO ANSWER TO BRUNSWICK ENGINEER

Robert A. Klassen, deposed Brunswick Street engineer, appeared at the office of THE RECORD with three reports, a copy of a letter and bill addressed to the city council, and Ordinance Number 303.

Although Ordinance 303 deals with the duties of the City Administrator, Klassen said that he did not feel that Dan Andersen was to blame for the lack of replies to the reports, bill and letter. Klassen said that he was convinced of Andersen's good faith by the fact that his (Klassen's) name originally appeared on the agenda and was not called.

The following letter was delivered to the office of THE RECORD, Wednesday morning:

Dear Sir:

On August 11th I personally delivered to Mr. Ross, the city clerk, my letter addressed to the city council transmitting my bill in full detail, for services rendered on the opening and improving of Brunswick street. At the same time I delivered a copy of the letter and bill to Mr. Andersen's secretary. He was not in at the time. I purposely delivered the letter and bill on that date so that the council would be able to consider same at its caucus meeting on August 17th and take formal action at its regular meeting on August 24th.

As you may have noticed the agenda for the meeting of August 24th had, under the heading "Communications" the name Klassen. This evidently had reference to my letter. On contacting Mr. Ross on the 25th, he stated the letter was not presented to him to be read. Why was the letter not permitted to be read and made a part of the city council's records? Your guess is as good as mine.

It appears to me, reading between the lines of some of your editorials, that you have questioned in your mind if the citizens of Daly City were made aware of just how much of their business was permitted to come to light.

For your information and so that you may, if you so desire, convey it on to the citizens of Daly City, I enclose copies of the following reports on the wall failure on Brunswick street, made to the city council and a bill, on account, I rendered for my services on the project. None of these reports or the bill on account have of this date, been made a public record.

The reports, addressed to the city council on my letter head, together with a copy for the Administrative Officer, Mr. Andersen, were delivered to Mr. Andersen.

Paragraph K, Section 1 of Ordinance Number 303 states, "to receive and open all public mail addressed to the Mayor and City Council jointly, or the City Council, or the City of Daly City, and give immediate attention thereto to the end that all administrative business referred to in said communications and not necessarily requiring Council action, may be disposed of between council meetings; provided that all actions taken pursuant to such communications shall be reported to the City Council at the next regular meeting thereafter.

The reports were dated January 3, May 5, and June 1, 1953. The bill was dated April 16, 1953, and had a memorandum attached to it.

I have tried to analyze what it is all about. Quite some time ago I came to the conclusion that, I for some reason unknown to me, got the displeasure of Councilman Green when he was Mayor.

As to how or why Councilman Green can dominate the other four members of the city council is beyond my comprehension.

Very truly yours,
R. A. Klassen
City Engineer

MINORS ARRESTED IN LOCAL TAVERN

Local Police Will Hold Traffic Check

Daly City police will conduct a traffic safety check Friday night, September 4, between 8 and 12 p.m. on Mission street opposite the War Memorial building, according to Officer Hank Sundermann.

Sundermann stated that the police department wanted to notify motorists in advance. "We are not trying to catch the motorist unaware. Our purpose is to assist motorists in correcting mechanical defects," Sundermann said.

Motorists having mechanical defects will be issued notices to make the proper repairs.

These notices do not affect the motorist's driving record in any way, according to Sundermann.

In the event of fog, the safety check will not take place that night.

The War Memorial building is located at Alp and Mission streets.

Brunswick Street Extension Plans Are Submitted

John A. Blaume appeared at the caucus meeting of the Daly City city council Monday evening with plans for finishing the Brunswick extension.

According to City Adimistrator Dan Andersen, a request will be made Tuesday in Sacramento for the use of gas tax funds to complete the project. Andersen estimated that an additional $20,000 will be needed. This will make the total expenditure on the project near $76,000.

TAKE FUCHSIAS FROM BASKETS

The basket hanging fuchsias you purchased from your nursery this summer should be removed from their containers at the end of the season, as they tend to become pot bound. Removal and pruning of roots and stems stimulates and strengthens the plants' Spring growth. Some gardeners, however, prefer to wait until new shoots appear in early Spring, so they can differentiate the old wood from the new limbs. In mild climates fuchsias have been trimmed and moved successfully the year 'round. They should be pruned severely until the stalks barely appear over the rim of their container. The result of such trimming are larger, healthier and more floral fuchsias.

Sleepy Time Is Not Driving Time Says Automobile Club

On this coming Labor Day weekend, motorists should remember that sleepy time is not driving time, according to the National Automobile Club. When the warmth of the engine, the hum of the tires, and the hypnotic spell of oncoming headlights have gotten you drowsy, that's the time when you can easily slip over the border line into the unconsciousness of sleep.

Rather than risk these few disastrous moments of unconsciousness, you should pull over to the side of the road and stop. Get out and walk around a little, get some fresh air into the car, or even take a refreshing nap. Stretch your legs and arms to increase circulation and rid yourself of the cramped position of continuous driving. Stop for a cup of coffee.

But the short nap will prove the best precaution. It is far better to lose a few minutes napping by the side of the road than to lose your life napping for a split second at the wheel of a speeding car.

TUNING IS THE ANSWER

A change in gasoline may seem necessary when mileage begins to fall off to a significant degree, but it is much more likely that the engine needs a thorough tuning up as to carburetor setting, ignition timing, valve adjustment, and the several other items that relate directly to the consumption of gas, according to the National Automobile Club. These things done, the old gasoline is likely to do its work in the same old efficient way.

Labor Day

EDITORIAL

Monday will mark the 65th celebration of Labor Day. The idea originated with the Knights of Labor, a band of men who are credited with fostering the movement for organized labor in the United States.

No doubt their choice of the first Monday in September is a judicious one. It is the last holiday of summer and marks the end of the normal vacation period. Monday also gives a three-day weekend to industries which operate under the 40-hour week. There is a pleasant stability about the three day holiday offered by Labor Day. Other holidays fluctuate through the seven days, but Labor Day comes on a Monday.

In the past there used to be huge Labor Day parades, but for the most part these have been discontinued, at least in this area. The reason for the discontinuation of these parades was to allow the laboring person to enjoy his holiday. To miss a Labor Day parade used to be punishable by a stiff fine when organized labor was in its infancy. Now that it is over its growing pains it is taking a more mature attitude towards itself and should be congratulated for the change.

Sometimes when we have witnessed Labor Day parades we have thought of them as devices of torture. We've seen elderly persons fall while marching in the heat. We've helped carry a victim of a heart attack off of the street. These are other reasons that we would like to congratulate organized labor for a mature attitude towards the celebration of the day set aside for it.

Labor has grown a great deal in the past 65 years and no doubt it will continue to grow. Let's hope that the maturing process becomes evident in many more ways, rather than just the celebration of Labor Day.

Time To Register For Voting

The time has come to think about registering to vote for the new citizens who have moved into the Daly City area, and for the old-timers who have never found time to do so. This is just a reminder. Waving the flag and explaining the importance of voting have been the subject of so many editorials that they are trite.

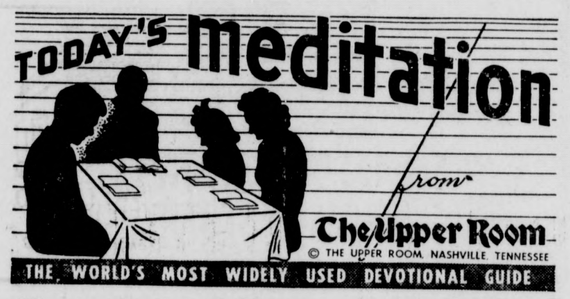
Persons who live in unincorporated areas near-by may register at the Daly City city hall. Persons who have fulfilled the 90-day residence requirements for voting may register. Daly City's and San Mateo county's residence requirements are the same.

Registering to vote might have proved an economical move if enough local citizens had been willing to do so. Next year there will be a Federal Municipal census paid for out of tax funds. If an accurate count of the citizens of Daly City had been possible, this census could have been avoided. However, few are registered so the census must be taken. The purpose of the census is to help increase tax monies allotted to the city from the state. It would seem to us that when appeals to patriotism, making democracy work, and other emotions are futile, but when registering to vote will save a few dollars for each citizen a person might find time to drop by the city hall and sign his name on the registry of voters.

New Motor Vehicle Laws

With 33 new changes scheduled for motor vehicle laws, one that particularly comes to mind is the courtesy which the state is enforcing motorists to extend toward pedestrians who are in a plainly marked pedestrian zone. The courtesy is statewide and judges are imposing heavy fines on violators of pedestrian zones.

There is one type of violation which is particularly vicious! It occurs when a motorist is obeying a signal and creeps into the pedestrian zone. The pedestrian is forced out of the safety lanes and into the line of traffic on the cross street. This occurs frequently and makes walking hazardous. This is only one of 33 new protective devices set up by the department of motor vehicles, but is one we favor particularly.



....."There is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved"—Acts 4:12. Read John 6:24-29.

When I was four years old my father gave my brother and me to a missionary lady so that we could be instructed as she thought fit. He himself went away from home and made two series of pilgrimages over all India, seeking out the most sacred shrines and temples of the Hindu faith, studying the Hindu philosophies to find peace with God.

Eighteen years later, when I was 22, my father returned to see us. I had already accepted Jesus Christ as my saviour. I asked him if he had found salvation he had been seeking and if he was at peace with God. His sad reply was, "No, my son."

Though there may be many ways of worship, there is only one way to salvation and peace with God—through Jesus Christ.

Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved. He is saying to us today: "My peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you."

PRAYER

O Christ, I yield myself to Thee, Renouncing all that I have and that the world offers, I seek Thy face. Come into my heart, Lord Jesus, and give me Thy peace and the comforting presence of the Holy Spirit, in Thy blessed name I pray, amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

"I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me."

My Mad World

By Leonore Brewer

At the moment my head is almost completely occupied by a cold with little room left for much else. The thoughts that otherwise might have been effectively marshalled into a credible column are engaged in a last-ditch stand for the only corner still free from germs. With a Kleenex in one hand and a bottle of aspirin in the other, I present a sorry sight as I sit here, trying to tell you about "Carnival in Flanders."

That's right, too late to do either you or the players much good, I went to see it. It has since gone on its way, so any comments will have merely academic interest, resembling a wake for a friend; nothing you say can make much difference, but you say it just the same. The word wake was not ill-chosen, as if "Carnival" attempts to open in New York in its present form, that's what's going to be held over it. I can well recall "Magdalena." It too originated on the West Coast, but it had something which Carnival doesn't have—a superior musical score. Even this availed it little in the final battle with the killing competition in New York.

All "Carnival" has are the remains of a completely delightful French film classic, Dolores Gray, some interesting choreography and a fine male dancer in Matt Mattox. These are considerable assets, which are not used to their fullest extent due to the poverty of the musical score and an orchestra of all brass and no depth.

I should have listed Miss Gray first, as it is she who carries practically the entire burden as the mayor's wife, with very little help from John Raitt as the Duke. As the all-conquering Spaniard with the roving eye, he is slightly reminiscent of Dennis Morgan. Now, Morgan's exhuberant boyish charm may prove irresistible to the eternally eighteen-year-old, but he wasn't the type the French had in mind when they filmed "Carnival." Perhaps Raitt could take some lessons in sheer masculinity from Maddox. The latter has it, and to spare. The position of the mayor in the play is a rather stereotyped one, which has been a source of laughter ever since Euclid invented the triangle. However, someone should tell Roy Roberts that it is a role not entirely synonymous with "ham."

Well anyway as we said before, for better or for worse "Carnival" is on its way. I shall watch for the New York reviews with considerable interest.

DATA FOR VETERANS

Q. I recently converted my GI insurance to a 20-year endowment policy. At the end of the endowment period, would it be possible for me to get monthly payments for the rest of my life?

A. No. Monthly payments for life would not be permitted. However, you could elect to receive the proceeds for a limited number of months, with equal payments being made each month. You could choose from 36 to 240 months, in multiples of 12.

Q. I figured that I'm eligible for 36 months of Korean GI Bill training. But I want to take a four-year college course. Could this be done?

A. It probably could. The average college year runs for nine months. Four such college years would amount to 36 months—the extent of your entitlement.

Q. I'm drawing a monthly disability pension. Some time ago I bought a house, and now I plan to sell it at what I hope will be a profit. Do I have to figure the proceeds of the sale as income, in determining whether my annual income falls within the limits of the law?

A. You're only required to consider the profit as income, for pension purposes.

Q. I made out a check for my monthly GI insurance premium and mailed it to VA. However, I forgot to sign the check. I'm afraid my insurance is going to lapse before I can get another check off to the VA. Is there anything I can do about it?

A. Yes. So long as you can present evidence to the VA that you have enough money in the bank to cover the premium, VA will allow you an additional 31 days to pay your premium. The 31-day period begins from the date of VA's letter to you, notifying you of your error.

A LOCAL LADY PRAISES MARCHBANKS PARK

THE RECORD
3317 San Jose Avenue
Daly City, California

Dear Editor:

In recent months there have been many articles in this paper concerning Marchbanks park. All of these articles have been unfavorable. If it wasn't complaints about the baseball diamonds, it was complaints about the dirty bathrooms (which aren't dirty at all). Everyone is quick to complain about the park, but no one is quick to praise it. People never write articles commending the directors and the good job they are doing. For instance, the way in which the directors participate in the activities right in with the children. Well I think it is time that some one says something about it.

In concluding this letter I'd like to say that I, for one, think that Marchbanks is one of the better parks in Daly City.

How Can I?

Q. How can I open a fresh coconut more easily?

A. First put it into a warm oven for 20 minutes. Then let it cool, and it should crack open of its own accord. If not, a few taps with a hammer should do it.

Q. How can I prevent raisins from sticking to the chopper and the bowl?

A. Set the chopper in a hot oven for a few minutes and pour boiling water over the raisins before you begin chopping.

Q. How can I remove an accumulation of old wax from linoleum?

A. You can do this in the ordinary washing process by allowing the soapsuds to stay on the floor for about 10 minutes before wiping up.

Q. How can I remove vegetable and fruit stains from the sink?

A. Mix up a paste of equal parts of bicarbonate of soda and chlorinated lime with boiling water and spread on the stains. Leave it until it dries, then wipe it off. Another paste for the same purpose can be made of three parts of cream of tartar to one part of peroxide.

Q. How can I keep frozen meat cold while defrosting the refrigerator?

A. Take the meat out of the freezing compartment, wrap it in waxed paper, then several layers of newspaper, and put it in a corner of the refrigerator until the power is turned on again.

Q. What is a quick, easy way to clean a felt hat?

A. On any felt hat, except white, you can do a fine job just by rubbing it with a piece of stale rye bread.

Q. How can I prevent the patent-leather covering on my high-heeled shoes from cracking?

A. By coating with colorless nail polish.

Q. How can I get longer wear from my nylon hose?

A. Try rubbing the toes and heels with paraffin or candle wax after the last washing, before putting them on.

Q. How can I clean leather upholstery on chairs?

A. By rubbing with a soft cloth dipped in ordinary milk—or better still, in beaten egg white. When they're dry, go over them again with a clean, soft cloth.

Q. How can I get beer stains out of materials?

A. Ordinary laundering will work for washable materials, and sponging with a cloth dipped in soapy water for unwashables. If the stain is an old one, add a little ammonia to the wash water.

Q. How can I keep my dustcloth slightly oily?

A. Add a spoonful of lemon oil or any furniture oil to the rinse water when you wash the cloth.

Slogan For September Is Announced By Traffic Department

"Children May Dare — Drivers Beware" is the September slogan of the San Mateo County Traffic Safety commission.

"Always expect the unexpected where the children are concerned," warned Archie Offield, commission chairman, "and children are going to be the concern of every motorist with the opening of our schools this month."

"Motorists always must be on guard for children," he said. "For when a child forgets, the driver must remember; if a traffic accident is to be avoided."

Offield gave four rules for motorists to follow to protect children on streets and highways:

1. Remember that children are unpredictable and that the motorist must think for them in traffic.

2. Give young bike riders every break.

3. Drive with extreme caution near schools and playgrounds and in residential areas—in fact, near any place where children may be expected to gather.

4. Be especially alert in school areas for signs, signals, traffic police, patrol boys and for children themselves.

"The best advice on child safety anyone can give a motorist," Offield said, "is contained in the Commission's slogan for September: 'Children May Dare—Drivers Beware!'"

DISAPPOINTMENT DEPT.

We imagine . . . JOE EARNSHAW . . . first baseman and striking-outest regular on the . . . RALPH'S CLEANERS . . . championship team will be a little upset when he sees this issue of THE RECORD. You see, Joe went to a lot of trouble to bring in a picture of the ball club and when we enlarged it, you couldn't see any of the boys' faces, so we didn't run it. Thanks anyhow, Joe.

Incidentally, manager . . . LOU MARTIN . . . of the county champs is bragging about his freshman year as a coach. He ended up in the first division of the PAL with his Jeff team, won the county championship and is doing nicely in the Funston Night League of San Francisco.

For Lou's information . . . HARRY KROHN . . . manager of the . . . SARTO AC . . . club issued a challenge today. He'd like to play the county champs at Marchbanks.

Two local gentlemen have the staff of THE RECORD pretty well mixed up. They are . . . ALEX J. McARTHUR . . . of 3329 San Jose avenue and . . . E. H. BADEN . . . of 310 Hillside boulevard. These gentlemen are members of the Central California Rifle association and mailed us some scores and a notice that the association would present trophies and eleet officers tonight at the . . . REGAL AMBER BREWING COMPANY . . . at 8 o'clock. Catch is that we didn't understand what the scores mean and couldn't write a story for the boys. Incidentally, Alex is president of the . . . MISSION RIFLE AND PISTOL CLUB . . . and E. H. is secretary of the CCRA. According to Alex, Daly Cityans hold key positions on several near-by rifle teams.

FREE FOOD DEPT.

All of our life we've been hearing about how newspaper people get to free load at the expense of people who are seeking publicity. This week we got a chance to see for ourself. We had business to attend to in San Jose and it coincided with a free steak dinner given by the . . . SANTA CLARA COUNTY FAIR ASSOCIATION . . . so we took the bus south. It was great! Simply great! There was free scotch, good salad, and a wonderful cut of beef. We just had a ball. The thing was held underneath the grandstand of the SC Fair grandstand and we figured out why when the radio announcers started sauntering in. Man, they're tall! Guess the most famous person there was . . . CAPTAIN FORTUNE . . . who had to stay and sign autographs for the proud papas and mammas whose children would have never forgiven them if they muffed a chance like that.

KCBS newscaster . . . NORMAN ROSS . . . and the MRS. were the most congenial people we talked to the whole evening. They told me that the TV boys and the radio boys don't hit it off too well which we thought was a bit surprising.

Ridgely Cummings Reports

"MARTHA" AND MARGIE

Frederick Von Flotow was a German composer born in 1812. "Martha" is an operetta written by Von Flotow and first produced in 1847.

These facts and a number of others came into my possession mostly because I persuaded a large group of relatives to journey to Sigmund Stern Grove the other Sunday afternoon. While there I thought I detected an error in the program.

Being an obstinate cuss with great faith in the printed word, I felt impelled to trace the error to its source. Now I can report that Calmer Press was absolutely correct and that at least two of the musicians didn't know too much about what they were playing.

After the second act some members of my party began to get restive, unaccustomed perhaps to so much fresh air and good music. One feminine member put her little food down and said she positively would not hold still for two more acts.

So we compromised. If there hadn't been other women in the party no doubt we would have packed our blankets, coats, hot dogs and peanuts and departed. But a distant niece once-removed, a dark-eyed bundle of energy from Los Angeles, insisted that we stay for at least one more act.

We stayed for the third act and it turned out to be the last.

Always an alert reporter, I cornered a bass fiddle player and asked how many acts Von Flotow had written for the opera.

"Three," he said.

"I wonder why the program said four?" I remarked mildly.

"Those printers always make mistakes," he replied loftily.

"Not Calmar Press," I said. "I know the owner, Al Anderson."

He looked at me somewhat disdainfully and I felt the interview was terminated.

Still not satisfied, I turned to another musician standing nearby and asked him the same question. I got a similar answer.

Well, I thought, I'll try one more. The musicians all looked somewhat alike, dark-haired men in dark blue suits, some with glasses and some without but all seeming to be about thirty and rather bored with the proceedings. Picking out another at random, I posed my query.

"You asked me that before," he said with asperity. "Three acts!"

It was the bass fiddle player again. He seemed to feel persecuted, as if I were another Sen. McCarthy.

A day or so later the point was still lurking in what I laughingly call my mind. So, being in the vicinity of the library, I did a little research.

It turned into quite a project, for "Martha" is a mixed up bit of entertainment.

Von Flotow wrote it in German. But the characters are all English. Lionel, the tenor, turns out in the last act to be the son of the Earl of Derby, banished and deceased before the singing started. This makes Lionel a suitable mate for Lady Harriet, alias Martha, maid of honor to Queen Anne.

After being sung in German with considerable success, "Martha" was translated into Italian and even today the tenor's great aria, "M'appari" (Like a dream) is usually sung in that language when it is separated from the whole. Next it was translated into French and finally into English.

I looked at the scores in all four languages and in each of them the operetta had four acts. What must have happened on this particular Sunday is that Gregory Miller, the musical director, condensed two into one along the line somewhere. Probably this happened in the middle, for the second act did seem rather long and it was after that one that the rebellion in my party started.

It was the English version that was sung at Stern Grove and a fine job the singers did with it, especially Caesar Curzi as the tenor and Peggy Overshiner as the soprano.

Curzi's rendition of "M'appari" was one of the best I have heard, and when I was covering musical events in Hollywood it was my fate to hear a few, for this is a tenor showpiece, one of the first ones that students learn. But not until my linguistic delving did I ever see the words of the aria in print.

For those as curious as myself, I reproduce the beginning of it here: "M'appari tutt' amor, il mio aguardo l'incontro; Bella si, che il mio cor, amioso a lei volo. Marta, Marta, tu sporiati, etc., etc."

After the linotype operator gets through with that I don't know how it will read but for me, whose knowledge of Italian is limited to "No cabische," the Roman version seems preferable to the rather

Ridgely Cummings

fancy English translation, which starts out: "My raptured gaze since enchanting softly, brightly, her face appeared, its beauty rare my vision haunting, still to me remains endeared."

One of the high points of "Martha" comes as the lady, disguised as a kitchen wench, sings "The Last Rose of Summer" in Lionel's farmhouse. There the English is just about perfect in translation and it is hard to realize that it had been sung in three other languages before we got it.

Another high point of the Grove performance was the dancing, directed by Dorothy Pring. There were too many high kickers bouncing around to name them individually here but my eye was taken by the dark-haired one on the left, with a rose in her hair and a twenty-inch waist, cinched in by a peasant bodice. She was almost as cute as my niece Margie.

Marsden Argall, who produced the operetta, did a thoughtful bit of work, making excellent use of the facilities of the Grove. One scene took place at a country fair and other during a hunting party in the forest, both settings made to order for the rustic surroundings. Not all the voices were great. I noticed Mr. Frankenstein of the Chronicle paid high compliments to the baritone of Myron Way as Farmer Plunkett, and I can't go along with him there. But Mr. Way was adequate and his stage presence and acting ability were better than his singing.

Oliver Jones sang the bass role, Eileen Baldwin was the alto, Martha's companion in disguise, and, as I may have indicated earlier, Peggy Overshiner in the title role and Caesar Curzi as the romantic lead were superb.

My niece Margie thought it was great. Her comment as we climbed the hill to the parking area was:

"Why can't Los Angeles have things like this? You're sure lucky to live in San Francisco."

Gardener's Check List

By The California Nurserymen's Association

1. Sow these flower seeds now for winter color: winter sweet peas, tetra snaps, winter stocks, viola, pansy, calendula, baby primrose and alyssum.

2. Set plants out now for late summer and fall blooms: petunias, marigolds, lobelia, snapdragons, zinnias and asters.

3. Plant perennial seeds now for next spring flowering: delphiniums, pentstemons, columbine, cereopsis and Sweet William.

4. Disbud exhibition chrysanthemums if large flowers are desired. Watch for black aphids. Fertilize at frequent intervals with fish emulsion.

Strybing Arboretum Devotes Space To Native Plant Growth

The Strybing Arboretum and Botanic Garden devotes considerable space to the growing of native plants. Of these Godetias provide the most colorful show at the moment. Godetia amoena is our local species, elsewhere out of bloom by this time, but here just coming into its best form; this species grows to nearly three feet tall in good soil, has rather pale rose flowers without any blotches. The other, even more showy species is Godetia grandiflora (G. Whitneyi) from the coast of Northern California. This is ancetral form of our modern garden Godtias, grows about two feet high. and has large, deep rose flowers with prominent dark blotches. Its color is rather variable, and the two species intercross here quite frequently. Another native in flower now is the "Sweet-scented Shrub," Calycanthus occidentalis, in flower along the path leading through the Azalea Dell near the Main gate. This has rather dull purple-brown flowers, but these are strongly fragrant.

Of the many exotic ornamentals now in flower mention may be made of the so-called "New Zealand Broom," Carmichaelia odorata, with clusters of tiny, fragrant pea blossoms. In the New Zealand area we may also see in flower Veronica Hebe "Autumn Glory," the Veronica with the most deeply blue flowers.

In the Mexican Section Cuphea platycentra is in bloom, and to see its tubular, scarlet flowers is to realize the aptness of its common name, "Cigar Plant." This is rather tender except in the most sheltered locations.

COOL DAY PLANTS

Calendula, stock, snapdragon, pansy, viola and primula malacoides are now appearing at retail nurseries. All thrive on the short cool days ahead and furnish months of stimulating color when the entire garden is at its lowest ebb.

Of this group calendula or "Pot Marigold" needs re-introduction into many gardens as there are new varieties that are markedly superior to strains available just a few short years ago. Present day calendula produce giant semi-double daisy flowered blooms in the old familiar orange and yellow as well as many new shades such as apricot, salmon and cream. Each flower head is born on a strong stem of excellent cutting length; thus giving calendula a dual role of garden beauty and indoor decoration.

Plant calendulas one foot apart in loose soil into which has been worked a goodly supply of steer manure. Avoid watering in the evening but do give occasional daytime thorough soakings. Calendula requires plenty of water but tends to rot when they suffer from steady wet feet—so raised beds are wise in anticipation of winter rain.

As calendula plantings require quite some time to present a good show of color, the Bedding Plant Advisory Board recommends interspacing some of the medium growing summer annuals that are currently available as blooming size plants in nursery flats. Such items as dwarf marigolds, annual phlox, verbena, petunias or pom pom zinnia will give immediate color in the bed and are easily topped or pulled out by the roots as the calendula planting matures to give its long winter show.

Combatting The More Common Lawn Fungi And Pests

Even the most diligent gardener is often confronted by lawn diseases from Spring until the end of the warm season in October. In fact lawn diseases are so prevalent during this period, their occurrence casts no reflection on the gardener. To prevent serious damage, however, they should be corrected before grass enters its Fall dormancy period.

Here are the characteristics of a few of the more common lawn fungi and pests—and helpful suggestions n combatting them.

Dollar Spot is distinguished by yellow to dirty white spots of dead grass, ranging in size from one-half to two inches in diameter. If not treated, "dollar spot" will enlarge rapidly. Chemical sprays, which have been developed to effectively counteract this fungus, are available in your nursery. Consult your nurseryman and give him a description of the disease which has attacked your lawn, and he will be able to advise you about a quick-acting spray you need.

Copper Spot, which develops in warm sultry weather when turf temperatures range from 65° to 85° F., is similar to "dollar spot" in size and required treatment. It can be distinguished, however, by its red or copper colored spots.

Brown Patch creates circular or irregular patches varying in size from five to 20 inches. This fungus usually develops a dark smoky ring at the edge of the dead grass, which distinguishes it from drought-affected turf. Chemical sprays which control this fungus need only be used when the affected area show signs of spreading, as the patches may disappear as rapidly as they develop.

Sod Worms, Etc.

Sod worms, white grubs, skipper butterfly larvae, which nest in warm grass, can be exterminated with various chemicals including DDT. Some reports, however, indicate that DDT will not control white grubs.

As a result of these conflicting reports, some gardeners turn to lead arsenate, which is more powerful. But, lead arsenate is so poisonous to humans and animals who touch grass sprayed with it, gardeners are advised to use it with extreme care—or avoid it entirely. Should lead arsenate be used . . . make absolutely certain that children are kept away from the area where it has been applied for at least two weeks.

Arsenate dispensed as a spray is more effective than as a dust because of it adhesion and greater uniform distribution. Gardeners with small lawns, however, may apply lead arsenate in solution with a sprinkling can with success. Do not apply lead arsenate without consulting your experienced nurseryman—for best as well as safest results.

Misbehaving Motorists

A report from the department of motor vehicles designates that local persons recently afoul of the law were:

Moses Duarate Garay, 13 Muirwood drive, probation; George William Hampton, 355 Woodrow street, suspended; and Stanley Ray Williams, 110 East Vista avenue, probation.

HOME HINTS FROM SUNSET MAGAZINE

Green Groomed Lawn

The right balance of water, fertilizer, mowing—and nothing else, no witchcraft—keeps many a Western lawn near perfection year after year. You can have a smooth, carpet-like lawn by following the simple directions you'll find in the September SUNSET. Early fall is a good time of year to build a new lawn or renovate an old one.

The right way to establish a lawn is not easy but each step helps to avoid some fault of older lawns. The Sunset article outlines eight steps in building a high-performance lawn and has a chart to help choose the best lawn mix for a particular type of lawn. In addition the Sunset article tells how to combat lawn fungus, insects and weeds to help keep your lawn looking trim.

Kitchen Garden

Would you like to be able to pick fresh vegetables from your garden without stepping out of your kitchen? Tomatoes, parsley, peppers, celery — any number of vegetables — can be grown right in the kitchen. Vegetables and flowers, grown the year-around, also bring a pleasing note of color into the adjoining breakfast area. Insect controls in the kitchen garden, described in the September issue, are simple—but effective: a hand spray and a resident tree frog named Herman. This new idea for Western Living can make your kitchen more exciting and provide you with growing vegetables as close as your work table.

Cooking At The Table

Working in a stuffy, steamy kitchen on hot summer days makes any cook wish for an easier, more pleasant way to prepare meals. There's a wonderful suggestion in the September issue—with ideas for getting out of the kitchen and cooking right at the table. Indoors or out, it's more fun preparing meals for the family or guests.

A chafing dish plus waffle iron give many menu choices, such as fresh corn waffles and creamed chicken, or cornmeal waffles and chili con carne. An electric corn popper furnishes quick heat for soups. An automatic deep fat fryer can be used to cook stew. There are many ideas in the magazine to make cooking more enjoyable.

Ways To Cook Cucumbers

Crisp cucumbers are most often delegated to the relish dish or the pickle crock. Western cooks, however, also know how to simmer, bake and even fry them says an article in Sunset. A thick cream soup made with cucumbers and chives is delicious hot or cold. White fish fillets stuffed—sandwich style—with cucumber dressing make an excellent summer dish. After deep fat frying, crumb-coated cucumber sticks have a crisp, brown crust but still keep a tender texture inside. There are also suggestions for using many other vegetables in this issue.

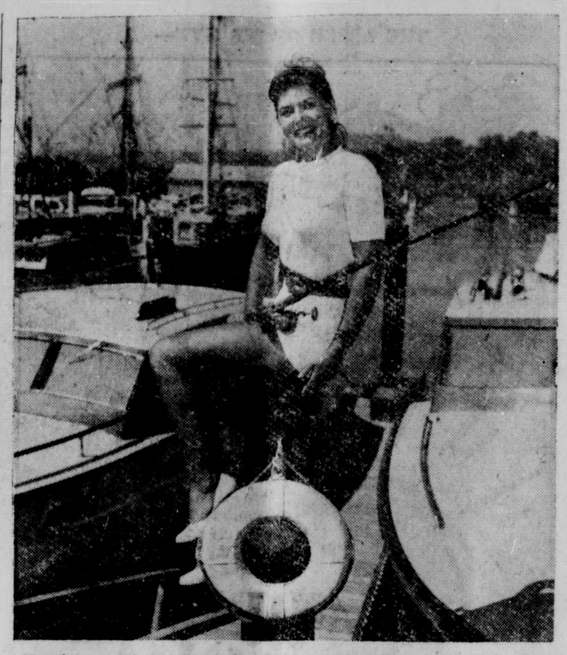
Ideas From The Orient

In recent years, ideas and imports from across the Pacific have become a rich source of furnishings and decorations for Western homes. There are many reasons for this, says a Sunset article. Western architects have shown a strong interest in the Oriental approach to house and garden design—the indoor-outdoor relationship in houses with whole walls open to a garden view—the same use of natural-finished materials, wood fibers and fabrics—and the use of flexible, open floor plans. In addition, the war brought thousands of Westerners into direct contact with the Orient. Hawaii has served as a middleground where many ideas from China and Japan have been tested and adapted for Western use and Hawaii has contributed the wide-open lanai to the mixture.

Whether or not you live in a house that reflects the influence of Oriental designs and materials, there are often many objects and materials among today's Oriental imports which will be handsome, useful, and highly adaptable to your own living. Rolled bamboo blinds take weather well and cut heat effectively when used outside windows. The Chinese have many useful, though exotic, kitchen utensils. The Chinese Wok is the best known of the many useful, though exotic, kitchen utensils and the Japanese rice tub is good for a plant container, ice bucket, or food container. The range of what you can buy is wide—from inexpensive mats and baskets to fabulously priced objects of art. The September issue will give you many ideas for buying and using Oriental handcrafts.

Back Up Carefully

Backing out of your driveway every day becomes such a matter of routine that carelessness may develop in performing this maneuver, warns the California State Automobile Association. A driver should be constantly on guard when backing out of a driveway. Always make certain the path behind is clear. Then back slowly, watching the driveway either by leaning slightly out the side window or by looking back over the shoulder through the rear window.



Here's an invitation from pretty Patti Peace to go fishing in the second annual Sausalito Salmon Derby, which is currently attracting hundreds of northern California anglers to the Marin county water sports city. The event offering $1,000 first prize and 50 others, continues daily until Sept. 12.

S. F. Has Unique Senior Center

To meet the need for recreation and companionship of an increasing number of elder citizens, San Francisco since 1948 has maintained a unique and popular Senior Center at Aquatic Park.

The Center offers a varied program of recreational, educational and service projects for both men and women over 60. It is sponsored by its own board of directors, the Community Chest and the Park and Recreation Commission. In addition to informal activities, classes with teachers from the Adult Education Department are available and members themselves take an active part in planning and running the Center.

The Center is open five days and two evenings a week, with a fall time director, a counselor and a staff of four part time workers directing activities.

First Aid Facilities

The American Red Cross again will provide first aid facilities for the benefit of visitors to the State Fair, September 3 through 13. First aiders will patrol the grounds on the lookout for accidents. With walkie-talkie radio they will communicate with Red Cross headquarters. In emergencies its ambulance will supplement the regular fair ambulance.

Chrysanthemums Transplant Easily

Freshly cut, golden chrysanthemums need not be a luxury on your holiday table if you plant them now. One of the hardiest and most satisfactory of the late fall blooming perennials, the multi-colored chrysanthemum has become popular because it is so easily transplanted in late summer just before its blooming period in October and November—in time for Thanksgiving. Chrysanthemums—purchased from your nurseryman or moved from the service planting area—will fill the bare spaces in your garden created by the dying of the summer bulbs and flowers. If there is plenty of ground, they can be trimmed back and left in the ground the year-round, dividing them every second or third year, as they multiply rapidly.

Professionally nurtured 4-month old plants are available on nursery shelves now. Plant them in the sun about 18 inches apart—adding a little fertilizer to complete the operation—and water periodically. Don't let them get dry. Your nurseryman can help you select the type of chrysanthemum you desire as there are a variety of colors and sizes.

STEINHART AQUARIUM DISPLAYS SNAKES

Two new South American snakes are now on display at Steinhart Aquarium at the California Academy of Sciences. One is an emerald tree boa and the other is a baby anaconda, a five-foot specimen of the world's second largest snake.

Dr. Earl S. Herald, aquatic biologist in charge of Steinhart Aquarium, said that both reptiles were imported from South America. The tree boa is a brilliant emerald green on its sides and back. Its underside is bright lemon yellow. A series of broad and widely separated enamel-white markings on its back are linked together by a slender irregular line of white along the ridge of the back. The non-venomous green snake lives in trees. It feeds almost exclusively on birds, catching them first in its long teeth and then crushing them to death with constricting coils. According to Dr. Herald, this brightly colored boa seldom exceeds a length of four feet. The specimen at the Academy is an adult.

The new anaconda is greenish brown with large rounded blackish spots scattered along its body. Dr. Herald says the anaconda, also non-poisonous, has been known to attain a length of 25 feet. Being a heavy bodied snake, however, it attains a greater weight than the regal python that is commonly considered the world's largest reptile. (A 19-foot anaconda at the New York Zoological Park was 36 inches in circumference at the thickest part of the body and weighed 236 pounds.)

Often called a water boa, the anaconda spends about half of its time in the water. It lives in the swampy river valleys of tropical South America.

College Degree Program For Fine Arts School

One of the few college programs in the United States leading to a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree was announced in detail today by Ernest Mundt, director, California School of Fine Arts, which recently added a college degree program to its regular curriculum of professional training in fine arts, commercial art, photography or crafts.

New courses and new faculty added under the new program, which begins September 8, were announced by Mr. Mundt in opening the Fall Term of the 80-year-old California School of Fine Arts, oldest art school in the Western United States and one of the oldest in the country.

EVENING CLASSES CONTINUED AT S.F. STATE COLLEGE

The public response to evening classes at the City College of San Francisco last year was so enthusiastic that the College is planning to offer an expanded program from 1953-54.

Courses which offer university credit are in greatest demand by the public. To satisfy this demand the City College Evening Program will offer Business Administration, Chemistry, Economics, English, Mathematics, Philosophy, Psychology, Sociology, Spanish, and Speech.

These courses are equivalent in subject matter and standards to the first two years of college work leading to professional training in four-year colleges and universities.

Training in the operation of International Business Key Punch machines will be offered.

Increasing demand for such semiprofessional courses, as Business, Paint Technology, and Photography has lead the administration to expand its offerings in these fields.

These courses are tuition free, and the City College invites you to inquire by letter or telephone for further information. Evening college begins September 14, 1953. College can be reached by K car or Miraloma Bus—Ocean and Phelan avenues. Phone JUniper 7-7272.

Modern French Prints To Be Shown At Museum

An exchange exhibition of approximately a hundred Contemporary French Prints will be shown at the M. H. De Young Memorial Museum August 23 through October 4. The exhibition was assembled in France by Arthur W. Heintzelman, keeper of prints, Boston Public library, for circulation in key cities throughout the United States.

Jean Adhemar, Secretaire General du Comite National de la Gravure Francaise, in the foreword of the catalogue explains the exhibition's intention is to not only present various trends of widely accepted schools of French graphic arts but also to achieve a more comprehensive representation than ever before. Such well known Masters as Picasso, Matisse, Braque, Segonzac, Derain, Rouault, Dufy and Chagall are among the 56 artists presented and included are works of younger and lesser known artists.

The cataloque foreward points out that the wide range in ages of artists represented helps explain various trends among prints sent to America.

Adhemar writes, "In the work of a few artists, we find the stamp of Whistler and the influence of impressionism. Following chronologically, the next group illustrate the strength of the new school which had been dominated, before the turn of the century, by the early work of Picasso, the period of the jugglers, The harlequins, and the 'repas frugal'. Then, there follows the cubist school; next, the 1920-30 generation, represented by the landscapists who used engraving and etching; and the 1939 group, long haunted by the nightmare of war and more tragic aspects of life. After this, abstraction emerges triumphant, and finally there is the neo-realist school, dark and melancholy, a reflection of the last few years."

The foreward refers to Contemporary French Prints as mirrors of our age no longer concerned with aesthetic experiment but reflecting an artistic conflict similar to the contemporary social and political struggles.

Arthur W. Heintzelman, in the catalogue introduction, points out that it was France that fostered the renaissance in graphic arts just before the turn of the century. And he credits the present high standard in French print making to a great degree to Ambroise Vollard who stimulated the interest of artists by commissioning them to carry out a series of subjects of their own choosing.

Wider Bond Coverage On Motor Vehicles Without Clear Title

The coverage of a bond filed by an applicant who registers a motor vehicle on which he is unable to show a clear title will now protect anyone who may have acquired an interest in the vehicle or its title.

The California State Automobile Association informs the motoring public that a new amendment to the Vehicle Code, effective September 9, provides that a person with an interest in a title to a motor vehicle may take action directly to recover on such a bond instead of dealing entirely with and through the applicant.

Without this change, the law protected only the Department of Motor Vehicles, its officers and employees, the applicant or any subsequent purchaser against loss, damage or claims upon the title to the bonded vehicle, the CSAA points out.

If another person had an undisclosed interest in the title it was necessary for that person, upon taking action to protect his interest, to make recovery through the applicant.

The CSAA also states that a further amendment to the bonding requirements provides that another person as well as the applicant may post a bond in connection with an application for registration to protect the Department of Motor Vehicles and subsequent purchasers in the event full and definite ownership of the vehicle cannot be established.

California canneries generally account for 2,400,000 pounds of the total national supply of 7,000,000 tons of vegetables used in canning.

Japanese Cast In Madame Butterfly Slated At Curran

The Fujiwara Opera Company of Tokyo, having made its bow in the United States last year at New York's City Center, has returned to our shores for its first American trans-continental tour, and will appear here at the Curran Theatre starting Friday, September 4, for a series of seven evening performances through Thursday, September 10, with a matinee scheduled for Saturday, September 5.

With an all-Japanese cast of Japan's best operatic stars, portraying the Japanese characters in Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" and American opera stars appearing in the American roles, the former singing their roles in their native tongue and the Americans singing in English, they will be supported by a Japanese chorus and ballet to the music of a symphony orchestra headed by Allen Jensen, brilliant West Coast conductor. The Fujiwara appearance promises to be something more than a novelty and becomes a logical method of presenting Puccini's wonderful opera, dramatically as well as musically.

Beautiful Michiko Sunahara, of the Opera Comique in Paris and the sensational Kazuko Yamaguchi, leading Fujiwara soprano, will alternate in the role of Cio Cio San. Others in the cast are Kazuko Mattsuuchi and Takako Kurimoto will alternate as Suzuki, Kiyoshi Takagi and Hatsumi Kikuchi, alternating as Goro, Tatsuo Saito, and Ryohei Miuamoto. The Americans are Dean Smith and Sven Nilsson alternating as Pinkerton, Francis Barnes and William Chapman alternating as Sharpless. Michael Nishida will have the role of Trouble, the offspring of Cio Cio San and Pinkerton.

Tadashi Mori, permanent conductor of the Fujiwara company will alternate with Allen Jensen in conducting the orchestra for the performances.

Yosie Fujiwara, founder of the Fujiwara Opera Company and a pioneer in presenting grand opera in Japanese, will personally tour with the company throughout its four month stay in the United States.

608 4-H Club Clothing Entries At State Fair

Members of 4-H Clubs from 32 counties have entered 608 articles of clothing for their project at the California State Fair in Sacramento, September 3 through 13.

The articles consist of a wide variety of clothing and accessories. Entries are classified into five phases from the simpler projects to those requiring greater skill in sewing. There are aprons, blouses, skirts, playclothes, pajamas, suits, coats, and dresses of many types. All articles were made by the members during the past year.

Not to be outclassed, the boys too, have entered the competition in which the State Fair offers a total of $500 in cash awards.

Judging will begin on September 1. Judges will use the Danish or group system for rating the articles. For the group of entries with the highest quality, blue ribbons will be awarded; the group ordinarily given second place will be awarded red ribbons. The grand total of points for the blue and for the red will be divided into the total premium money. Points vary on each article according to the phase in which the entry is made. Inidividual cash awards range from $1.50 to $4.00 for the blue ribbon winners and from $1.00 to $3.00 for the red ribbon winners.

Sacramento county leads in the number of entries with 97; Tulare county is second with 64.

Last year, 109 blue and 165 red ribbons were awarded during the State Fair.

LITTLE CHANGE

A zoologist on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California reports that life among southern California snakes and lizards, frogs and toads has changed little in the last 20,000 years. Bayard Brattstrom made these findings when he examined a collection of bones of these animals from the La Brea tar pits.

Pepper vines bear fruit within two or three years of planting but they are not mature until seven or eight years old.

Old St. Mary's Players Will Present "Gramercy Ghost" By John Holm

A modern-mystery-comedy romance starring the amorous ghost of a revolutionary war soldier, Gramercy Ghost is the fall offering of the old St. Mary's Players.

The group under the direction of Patricia Hagerty is giving four plays a year, each with six weeks rehearsal; this being the third in the series, and by far the most ambitious.

Gramercy Ghost, by John Holm, is a three-act play and originally starred Sarah Churchill on Broadway. It should test the keen acting ability of the players who include the leads, Kathy Smith, Wally Colthurst, Bill Pech and Bill Land with supporting actors Carol Machol, Lynn Leininger, Paul Houret, Paul Crudo and Bill Marconi, Gloria Orzanco, Arnold De Angelis, Tony Alipranti, Pat Kelly and Cee Gilbert.

A major construction job has been in progress, and Miss Hagerty gives high praise to John Feerick and his crew who have created a completely different effect for the staging. The cast has joined them in the painting and art work.

Two well know local experts in the lighting field, Larry Lewis and Fred Windmuller will stage the unusual electrical effects.

Gramercy Ghost will be presented Sept. 11-12-18-19-25 and 26 at the Center Auditorium, Grant avenue at California, at 8:30 p.m. each evening. Admission is $1.25 and tickets may be purchased at the center or next door at the Paulist Library.

MARINER SCOUTS ARE CRUISE GUESTS OF THE SMITHS

The girls from Mariner Scout Troop 4 were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Smith on board their beautiful twin cabin cruiser, "The Alphil," on Sunday, August 30. The girls embarked at 10:00 a.m. from Berkeley Yacht Harbor, cruised past Angel Island, Tiburon and Belvedere, and then to the Yacht Harbor at San Rafael where they tied up for lunch.

The highlight of the trip came when each Mariner took her turn at the helm after being instructed by Smith in charting the course.

SHERIDAN P.T.A. EXTENDS INVITE

Sheridan PTA will welcome new mothers registering their children at Sheridan school on Monday, September 14. Members of the PTA will serve coffee and doughnuts, with Mrs. Wayne Foote, hospitality chairman, as hostess.

Mary Coppola keeps herself quite busy between her regular job at Gamble's Western Auto, her position as adviser for the Broadmoor Boy's club, and third job as a police matron for the Broadmoor police department. Shown here she is on a fishing party at Lake Merced with some of the youngsters from the Boy's club.

MARY COPPOLA -- A BUSY WOMAN

One of the busiest women in Broadmoor is Mrs. Mary Coppola—housewife, mother, police matron, director of the boys' club and part-time employee of the Western Auto Supply Co.

According to Mrs. Coppola, the latter job is the one she doesn't quite understand. She is employed to help with the Christmas rush, but each year the manager of the store decides to get ready for the Christmas rush a little earlier. This year Mrs. Coppola began helping with the Christmas rush in June. She isn't exactly sure what Christmas rush it is either.

Ralph Coppola, her husband assists with the boy's club. He is a member of the board of directors along with Anita Shanoian, Stanley Klopstock and Larry Bollender.

A resident of Broadmoor for five years, the Coppolas became interested in the boy's club at the request of Walter Schmidt who was then police chief. At its inception, the club had 14 members; now it has 152. Meetings are held each Wednesday evening and the boys are expected to bring 10 cents in dues to pay for refreshments. Current attraction of the boy's club are films. In the past, the boys have been taken to the Ice Follies and attractions at the Curran Theater as guests of the management. Mrs. Coppola said that these organizations have been wonderfully cooperative.

Her voice grew bitter as she explained the difficulties the members of the board of directors have had in getting transportation for the youngsters to and from such events in San Francisco. She said, "The parents don't seem to give a hang if the kids have a good time or not. They give them a dime and send them to the boy's club and forget them. We do our best, but we just don't have enough cars."

As police matron, Mrs. Coppola handles all of the females taken into custody by the Broadmoor police. She said that none of her "customers" had resisted her yet and she hoped that none would. The toughest characters (female) that she's met yet are a couple of juvenile delinquents picked up by the Broadmoor police some time ago. Mrs. Coppola said that she'd never heard such rough language.

For the Western Auto Supply Co. Mrs. Coppola does all sorts of work. She estimates the value of bicycles youngsters want to trade in for new ones. She reminds would-be painters that they forgot to buy brushes to go with the paint they have just purchased, sells garden equipment and appliances and keeps an eagle eye on the youngsters who come in the store. When she catches one of the kids swiping something she scares the daylights out of them. She said, "I blame the parents more than the children so I just give the kids blue blazes.

"Sometimes adults are worse than kids when it comes to stealing stuff," Mrs. Coppola said. "We get a case every now and then. Mostly though, they've learned to be pretty careful around here."

In spite of all her activities, Mrs. Coppola is finding time to raise a family. She has a son, Nicky, who is 10 and a daughter, Christine, who is seven.

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE

There is a difference between the size of the spark plug gap that current will jump when it is outside the cylinder, according to the National Automobile Club. A width that will be cleared when the plug is being tested out of its port may be altogether too great for efficient functioning when in place. The difference is accounted for in the increased resistance of the compressed gases when the plug is in place.

RALPH'S CLEANERS WIN SM COUNTY TITLE

MANAGER LOU MARTIN'S LOCALS LARRUP LIONS FOR PBL CHAMPIONSHIP

Bunching seven hits for eight runs in the fourth inning, Ralph's Cleaners blasted the San Carlos Lions 11-2 at Flood Park in Menlo Park Sunday to nail down the senior division Peninsula Baseball league championship for Daly City.

Leading the locals assault on San Carlos pitcher Teddy Lawrence was centerfielder Larry "Doc" Blanchard who collected three safeties in five at bat including a double in the eventful fourth. Other extra base singles blasted by Ralph's cleaners nine included triples by pitcher Arnold Brooks and second baseman Ray Rosa; doubles by catcher Bob Butcher and right fielder Don Delbon. Delbon, Butcher and Rosa each got a pair of hits.

Brooks, who hurled all the way for the locals, struck out 10 and walked seven. According to Manager Lou Martin, Brooks made several sparkling fielding plays including the knocking down of a terrific line drive that looked like a sure hit. Manager Martin applauded the steady catching of Butcher and said that his accurate throwing cut down two men at second base when they were trying to steal. Martin paid tribute to the play of center fielder Blanchard also.

International Stock Car Race Slated For Bay Meadows Track

Auto racing fans and the general public who watch the Sept. 6 250-mile Bay Meadows International Stock Car Race can be positively assured that the cars they are watching roar around the track are exactly the same as those they drive on the city streets and highways, promoter Bill Kyne said yesterday.

Kyne added that Bob Barkhimer, president of the sanctioning West Coast Racing Association, had outlined to him the association's policy regarding so-called "export kits."

Said Barkhimer:

"In the past few years, many of the automobile manufacturers began to make special racing parts strictly for stock car races, and in order to qualify these cars for the race, had all the "export kits" properly cataloged. However, the average car did not have any of these parts, and they were actually not obtainable by the general public.

"After one manufacturer did this, others followed suit, and very shortly, things got out-of-hand. Therefore, for our last race at the Oakland Speedway, this Bay Meadows race, and others we sanction, only cars "strictly stock" —that is, just the way they are driven on the streets and highways —will be permitted in the race. Thus, racing fans are assured they are watching 'their' cars race around the track. I think it's a good thing for stock car racing, and I know it certainly is a better break for the race fan," he concluded.

Bay Barrier Study Stars

Following agreement between California and the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, the long-awaited engineering study of the economic feasibility of a northern San Francisco Bay salt water barrier is under way. State Engineer A. D. The survey will be directed by Gordon Long of the Division of Water Resources under general supervision of Assistant State Engineer T. B. Waddell.

Sausalito Salmon Derby Closes On September 17

Eugene Pritchard of San Francisco continued to lead the race for the Sausalito Salmon Derby's $1,000 first prize, when the third week's angling in the annual event failed to produce a chinook to match his 36 pound, 10 ounce catch of Aug. 13, it was announced today.

An Alameda fisherman, Frank Brown, won the top weekly portable shortwave radio award on a 32 pound, seven ounce fish, taken aboard Skipper Frank Sargent's Alice in the vicinity of the Farallon Islands.

Other winners in the third week's competition were John Rousch Jr. of Burlingame, 28-11 aboard the Betty Fern; W. H. Marten, Woodland, 24-14, Four Fifth; W. G. Wong, Fresno, 33-9, Maybe; Oscar Leek, Novato, 22-7, Four Fifths; Fred Pries, San Leandro 21-13, Blufin; Russel Rivet, Sacramento 20-14, Four Fifths.

Mildred Johnson of San Francisco, whose salmon lacked one ounce of equaling Pritchard's $1,000 fish, leads the contest for the stoneware dinner set to be presented the event's most successful anglerette.

The derby, sponsored by the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce, continues daily through Sept. 12, and has enlisted nearly 2,000 anglers to date.

Competition is conducted aboard a fleet of 30 party boats operating out of Sausalito, and reservations may be made at either Scotty's or the Sausalito Boat & Tackle shops, which are also official weigh-in stations. Entry fee is one dollar for the entire season, tickets available aboard the competing boats.

Football Practice Has Started At San Mateo J.C.

Football practice got underway at San Mateo Junior college Tuesday, Sept. 1, on the Coyote Point campus field under the direction of Duane Whitehead, new football coach. Players from local communities reported for this early practice, with players from more distant areas scheduled to report next week when the college holds class registration. About 50 or 60 men are expected to form the junior college squad.

Every four-year high school in the county will probably be represented on the squad which will also include players from adjacent counties along with several men who had their high school training in other states. About 10 veterans from the 1952 squad will be back.

Coach Whitehead, line coach Herb Hudson, and backfield coach Dell Fishback will devote two weeks to conditioning and fundamentals and then start drill on T-formation plays. The first game will be Sept. 25 at Salinas against Hartnell college which played in the Little Rose Bowl classic last season.

BRENTWOOD BOWL WINTER LEAGUES BEGIN TUESDAY

More than 1000 bowlers are set to roll in the third winter league bowling season opening officially at Brentwood Bowl, Tuesday night, Sept. 8 at the huge Peninsula bowling lanes.

According to Brentwood owners, Abe Seabock and Elwyn Wallace, a total of 180 teams will compete in the fifteen league slate running nightly, except weekends, throughout the 35 week winter schedule. Competition ranges from the top-flight men's 875 scratch play to handicap leagues for men, women and mixed squads. Teams are entered from San Francisco, Daly City, the immediate San Bruno-South San Francisco area to as far south as Redwood City.

Opening of Brentwood's winter bowling season marks the second anniversary of the south San Francisco pin palace.

Tuesday's inaugural presents San Bruno's Eimac bowlers in their own eight team league starting at 6:30 p.m. The H. S. Crocker league and the hotly contested sixteen team Daly City-Colma league follows. The "hotshots" take over the lanes Wednesday night in the eight team 875 scratch competition. The gals dominate the show on Friday with the second running of the Brentwood Pin-Up league.

The bowlers will vie for trophies and prizes in each league, in addition to individual awards for outstanding performances.

E. J. Rowé of 174 Winchester street has violated all of the rules of retriever training and come up with a derby champ. His prize winner is Beewacker's Chester who took a blue ribbon and a silver plate in two year old and under in the all breed field trials held last week in Vallejo.

Training violations by the dog's owner include the use of a book named "Training Your Retriever" by James Lamb Free. They say a dog can't be trained by book, but this champion was.

In the book it is stated that Chesapeake retrievers are especialy difficult to train which makes Beewacker's Chester's owner all the more proud.

SARTOS WIN EASY TILT

Sarto's AC won another victory Sunday afternoon at Marchbanks diamond defeating Cherolis Nursery 11-2. Relief center fielder Bonnici was the only local performer to fail to hit.

Big blow of the game was a bases-loaded triple by first baseman Ed Romero. Catcher Podskoff led the Sarto Attack with three safeties in five at bats.

Behind the brilliant fielding of shortstop Freddie Welp and third baseman Johnny Olcese, Pitcher Johnny Creighton threw seven hit ball and allowed two runs in a six inning pitching chore. His relief Giannecchine allowed no hits and no runs in three innings.

FUEL SYSTEM CARE

Keeping the gasoline in your car near the full point lessens condensation of moisture in the fuel tank, which is one of the causes of difficult starting, the California State Automobile Association points out. Keeping the fuel tank full is one way to prevent accumulations of water in the fuel system.

The Outdoors

Three Colusa county hunters face serious charges in Superior Court as an aftermath of the alleged slugging of a California Department of Fish and Game warden.

District Attorney Daniel E. Weyand has filed robbery, escape and resisting arrest charges against Dudley E. Begley, of Colusa, and has also charged him jointly with Robert F. Eagleton and Jesse R. Lynch, both of Williams, of taking a doe. Eagleton and Lynch likewise are charged with escape. Begley is further charged with failure to heed an emergency vehicle's red light and siren.

Warden Douglas Dowell said he attempted near Wilbur Springs to halt an automobile, allegedly driven by Begley, to check on the suspected possession of an illegal deer. When the car ignored his red light and siren, he forced it off the road.

Dowell said he opened the trunk and discovered the deer, with its head cut off, and at that point he was slugged unconscious. When he "came to," his gun, hat, flashlight and car keys were gone and his car's ignition had been fouled so the vehicle would not start.

Working with sheriff's deputies the following day near the scene of the incident, Warden Ross Waggoner of Yuba City found the car keys as well as a hat with Eagleton's hunting license on it. With this lead and Warden Dowell's description of the other car, the deputies picked up Eagleton, Lynch and Begley.

Lee F. Payne, members of the California Fish and Game Commission from Los Angeles, was elected president of the Inter-American Tropical Tuna Commission at its meeting in San Diego recently. His election was unanimous.

The meeting was attended by commissioners from the United States and Costa Rica—the two member-nations—and by a representative of the Republic of Panama, which plans to join soon.

John L. Farley, new head of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, attended as an observer.

Richard S. Croker was present as an observer for the California Department of Fish and Game, which is cooperating in the international commission's tropical Pacific research program.

U. S. commissioners were Payne, Eugene Bennett of San Francisco, and Gordon Sloan of Astoria, Oregon. Costa Rican commissioners were Jose L. Cardona-Cooper and Virgilio Aquiluz. Consul General Dias represented Panama.

The new $692,000 Moccasin creek trout hatchery in Tuolumne county will be in operation by early spring next year, according to latest Department of Fish and Game estimates.

Already work has been completed on the 24 rearing ponds, the first phase of the project, and contracts have been let for construction of the water intake system and

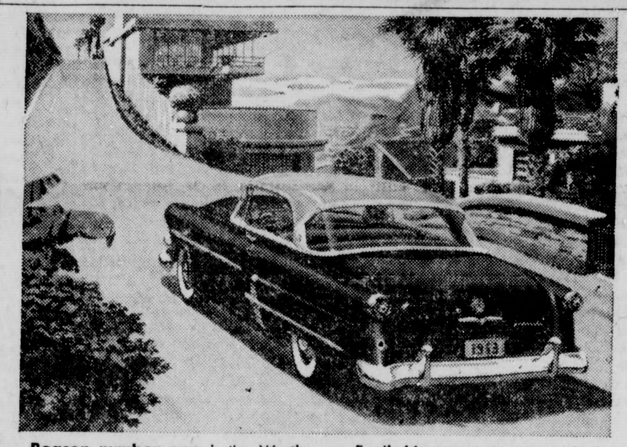
Why the West is Wild about Ford

Ford's got the "Go," the stamina and the low operating cost the West Coast demands!

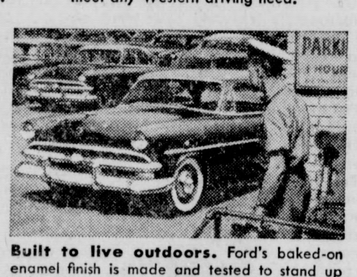


Reason number one is the West's wide variety of driving conditions. Ford has the power to take the toughest mountain passes . . . to whisk you past slow moving trucks on steep hills . . . to whiz along desert straight-a-ways.

Ford's big power story comes in the smooth, spirited, high-compression V-8 engine (the only V-8 in the low-price field). And Ford's Mileage Maker Six gives you more than enough power to meet any Western driving need.

Distance is its dish. Here—where cars are used more, driven further—Ford gas economy really pays off. By beating the whole field in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run from L.A. to Sun Valley, a Ford Mileage Maker Six with Overdrive proved itself the right car for top savings.

Up to 80% less road shock. Since Westerners "live" more in their cars, Ford's new Wonder Ride is just the ticket. It proves that you need not carry gas-eating extra weight in order to ride like a heavyweight. For Ford's new ride cuts front end road shock up to 80%.



Built to live outdoors. Ford's baked-on enamel finish is made and tested to stand up longer and to resist fading in the hot sun and salt air. And in winter, Ford's hull-tight body keeps you snug even in driving rain. Fords have smooth, welded seams to resist weather and dirt.

WORTH MORE WHEN YOU BUY IT...WORTH MORE WHEN YOU SELL IT

See . . . Value Check . . . and Test Drive a new Ford today! You'll find out first-hand why the West Coast is swinging to Ford. And you'll see the rest of Ford's 41 "Worth More" features—features like Full-Circle Visibility . . . suspended brake and clutch pedals. . . and Center-Fill Fueling.

Within a year San Francisco will be the center of a ring of guided missile batteries, Lt. Gen. John T. Lewis, commander of the Army's anti-aircraft command, said this week during an inspection tour of Bay Area installations.

CLEAN, THEN USE GREASE

The cleaner the grease or oil, the better it lubricates, according to the National Automobile Club. All motorists know this fact, which makes it more surprising that, when using the grease gun, they wait until after the operation before wiping off the fittings. The fittings should be cleaned throughly before the gun is applied if abrasive is not to be forced in with the oil or grease.

erection of the hatchery buildings. The work is being financed by Wildlife Conservation Board funds, which come from the State's share of parimutuel horse racing revenues.

When completed, the new hatchery will be able to supply 80,000 pounds of catchable sized rainbow trout a year to California streams.

The State's waterfowl management areas, long devoted exclusively to ducks and geese, will soon have some extra boarders, under a new program launched this summer by the California Department of Fish and Game.

Largemouth bass have been planted in two of the deeper ponds at the Los Banos management area, in Merced county, and similar plantings are now being scheduled for all other State-operated waterfowl areas that prove suitable.

Los Banos manager Roy Wattenbarger estimates that the bass in his ponds will reach catchable size by early next summer.

The introduction of fishing is not expected to interfere with the regular operations of the management area, Wattenbarger pointed out. The ponds with bass in them will be maintained by the regular waterfowl management men, and the areas will continue to serve principally as resting and feeding places for the ducks and geese on their annual trip south.

Fishing will not be permitted during duck hunting season, when parts of the management area are open to public shooting.

The two ponds planted at Los Banos totaled 70 acres in area. Two more ponds, totaling 100 acres, can be planted as soon as chemical treatment cleans out the carp and other undesirable "rough fish."

Of the total of 5,400 upland game birds liberated from State-operated game farms during the first two weeks of August, 1,220 were released in Inyo county, the Department of Fish and Game reports.

The deer kill for the coastal season this year is running higher than in 1952, according to deer tag returns tallied by the California Department of Fish and Game.

The 1952 coastal season was the second best on record.

Figures for the 18th day, a little more than half-way through this year's August 8 to September 11 season, show a kill of 10,464 bucks, compared to 1952's kill of 10,026 for the same day of the season. This year, also, the area open to hunting is smaller. Part of Colusa, and Glenn and Tehama counties, which accounted for 435 of the 1952 total, are no longer in the early season.

In Lake, Mendocino, and the other major hunting counties, tag returns are running 8 to 10 per cent ahead of last year. Only in the southwestern San Joaquin Valley and in Los Angeles county is the kill behind 1952.

Tossing a salmon tag in a bureau drawer almost lost San Francisco party boat operator Karl Gunther $50 this summer.

The San Francisco Tyee Club was offering a $50 prize for the return of that "lucky" tag to the California Department of Fish and Game.

Fortunately Gunther's wife later found the tag and got Gunther to send it in.

Now he is $50 richer, and the Department of Fish and Game has one more piece of information to help in its studies to improve ocean fishing.

Gunther's fish, which had been tagged and thrown back in June, 1952, had grown 7½ inches and gained 20 pounds in the year it was roaming, Department figures showed.

The Tyee Club reports that there are still $75 forth of tagged fish out there somewhere. The last prize fish was taken by Antone Fagunes of Sacramento, in the Sacramento river on May 2, 1950.

Hunting is becoming an ever more popular sport in California, despite the yearly shrinking of the area available for hunting.

A total of 588,150 people bought hunting licenses for 1952-53, Department of Fish and Game license sales figures show. This was an increase of 10 per cent over the previous year, and more than double the State's mushrooming 4.4 per cent increase in population.

As the number of hunters continues to skyrocket, Director Seth Gordon points out, the problems of the Department in conserving and protecting the State's wildlife resources and servicing the license buyers multiply even faster than the increased number of hunters would indicate.

The area available for hunting is shrinking every year. Marshes are being drained, wild lands are being cultivated, domestic and industrial installations are taking more water.

This was the second straight year that hunting license sales outdistanced population growth. Sales for 1951-52 numbered 534,329, an 8.5 per cent increase over the year before, compared with a population increase of 4.0 per cent.

Not since the sparsely populated 1920's, have so large a portion of California's residents been hunters. Last year hunters numbered nearly one in 20 of the population. In both 1930 and 1940, the ratio was one in 24, and in 1950 it was one in 22.

License sales for 1941-42, the biggest pre-war year, have been outdistanced 77 per cent, while the State's population has grown 56 per cent in the same period.

Field Crops Outlook Good

California field crops made generally satisfactory development in July and on August 1 yield prospects are equal or better than average for this group of crops, except rice and cotton, the California Crop and Livestock Reporting Service declared in its August 1 report.

"Rice and cotton made favorable progress in July," according to the report, "but prospects are below average because of unfavorable conditions during early growing period."

The Service reported irrigation water appears adequate for most Summer needs.

COW PALACE IS REMODLED FOR GRAND NATIONAL

A Cow Palace re-roofed and newly painted on the outside, and with an extensively remodeled arena will greet patrons of the 1953 Grand National Livestock Exposition, Horse Show and Rodeo, Oct. 30 to Nov. 8, it was announced today by Nye Wilson, secretary-manager of the huge concrete structure astride the San Francisco-San Mateo county line.

The re-roofing and painting is part of a $50,000 minimum per year expenditure for repair and deferred maintenance to which the Cow Palace Board of Directors headed by Porter Sesnon, has pledged itself for the next four to five years, in order to bring the $8,000,000 plant up to an acceptable standard of repair.

Remodeling of the arena will provide substantially increased floor space and up-to-the-minute facilities for use of a more diversified and greater number of prospective lessees.

Already completed at a cost of approximately $35,000 is the painting, for the first time, of the outside of the main Cow Palace arena and the adjoining Horse Barns which represent a total area of 156,400 square feet. This huge area was cleaned and sand-blasted, and exposed construction tie-wires chipped before the work of sealing and covering with three coats of cream colored paint. A total of 2860 gallons were required.

For the first time the name "Cow Palace" has been painted in letters 16 feet high and 170 feet long high on the East and West walls of the building. Also included was completion of the painting of the interior walls in the arena proper which was one of last year's projects.

Re-roofing of the main arena building and horse barns is now being carried on under the supervision of the State Division of Architecture at an approximate cost of $56,000 and will be completed before the Fall rains. The roof will be painted aluminum color to harmonize with the new cream exterior.

Major transformation in the arena, itself, is a new floor of ten-inch concrete complete with all modern adjuncts to the staging of virtually any type of entertainment.

These include conduits and cables for telephone lines, telegraph lines, electrical lines, intercommunication lines, public address lines, drainage, and set-ups designed for shows which require speedy erection of special equipment.

These set-ups consist of 109 special anchors which are installed flush with the floor. These anchors were designed by engineers of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus which appears at the Cow Palace whenever it plays the Western circuit, and are adaptable to erection of Horse Show rings, livestock sales pens, and many special riggings.

Also to be constructed is a new type safety arena wall for which bids have been invited. The new wall will be portable allowing full use of the concrete arena floor. This will increase the arena floor space by aproximately 5,000 square feet to an overall total of 30,1000 square feet. For horse shows, rodeo, and similar activities, a stock pile of specially selected clay will be used to cover the concrete to a depth up to 12 inches. Tanbark will cover the clay.

This spacious, modernly equipped, level arena floor space, Wilson pointed out, will greatly enhance the desirability of the Cow Palace for exhibit shows and many other types of industrial and stage shows as well as giving improved facilities for ice shows, boxing matches and other sports events.

Recent improvements also include a new portable, sectional stage, new conduits and cables for the public address system, additional electrical outlets, water connections and drainage for washing down seating areas and the new concrete arena floor. For patrons it will eliminate the present necessity of walking through dirt. Also completed is the construction of new openings at the top level of the roof to expedite the removal of smoke and foul air from the floor 104 feet below, Wilson said.

Auto Painting Methods Improved Through Research

Those of us who have wielded a paint brush around the house know that even the painting of a kitchen stool can have its little problems. If the painting of such a simple thing as a stool can have its problems, points out the National Automobile Club, just think what the painting of the tens of thousands of automobiles that roll along our assembly lines can be.

When the American automotive industry first went into mass production the painting of these automobiles gave the technical men their full quota of headaches. Paint dried slowly in these days and before a car could be carried off to the market it had to stand around for a while and be dried and sanded several times. Even after the invention of fast-drying lacquer in the early twenties many problems remained. Lacquers would fade and chip. When applied in damp weather they would quite often change color, wash away into an anemic white.

The automotive men, however, realized they had some work to do here and they soon set about doing it. They established laboratories where, under controlled conditions, they watched the wear and aging of paint. They exposed painted panels to warm sun of Florida and to the biting salt air of the New England coast. They took painted panels and froze them, then bent them double to see how they would crack. And they took these same panels and exposed them to a barrage of gravel thrown by a device that simulated the conditions of driving on a gravel road behind another car.

From all these experiments they gained knowledge and with their knowledge they created improvements. Great advances were made in the preparation and treating of surfaces to be painted, and in the paints that were applied to these surfaces. New and more stable, more durable colors were added to their pot of tricks, were made available to the average car owner. But problems still remain. The action of moisture and light on paint is not yet fully understood and the morning dew can still steal the luster from your car in a most effective way. To solve these problems the research goes on and all to the end that your car may be brighter and shinier when it rolls down the open road.

VEHICLE CODE CHANGE

"Only the far right will be all right!"

One of the 133 vehicle code changes to become effective on September 9 cites the truth of this statement to a considerable segment of California's vehicle population, Commissioner B. R. Caldwell of the California Highway Patrol announced today.

"Beginning September 9, any vehicle which is normally required to be driven at a reduced maximum speed because of weight, will also be required to operate in the right hand lane of traffic or as close as practicable to the right edge or curb," Caldwell explains.

Vehicles affected by this amendment include any motor truck and trailer, any motor truck alone or truck tractor with a semitrailer when the gross weight is 25,000 pounds or more, any any vehicle with solid rubber or metal tires.

Only exceptions to this provision will be to allow these vehicles to leave the right hand lane when pasing another vehicle proceeding in the same direction or when preparing to make a left turn.

"For several years there has been a law requiring all traffic moving slower than the normal flow to keep to the right," the Commissioner comments, "but this new section identifies certain types of vehicles which must always operate in the right hand lane after September 9.

"On and after September 9 it will be illegal for any vehicle using bright headlight beams to follow within 200 feet of the car ahead," Caldwell stated.

"Immediate cooperation by all drivers will end one of the most serious hazards of night driving as well as an irritating source of discomfort.

"It is ironic that the legislature has found it necessary to make illegal a practice which normal motoring courtesy should have eliminated long ago," Caldwell added.

"There has been no change in the existing requirement that all motorists must lower the beams of their headlights when approaching within 500 feet of a vehicle bound from the opposite direction," he explained.

The new amendment will apply to any motor vehicle operated on the highways between thirty minute after sundown and thirty minutes before sunrise; or at any other time when headlights would normally be required.

The light dimming regulation is one of more than 130 changes in the Vehicle Code enacted by the 1953 legislature and scheduled to take effect on September 9.

GI Training Benefits Will Expire Within A Year For Many Vets

The deadline for starting training under the Korean GI Bill is exactly one year away for nearly 1,000,000 Korean veterans, Veterans Administration announced today. The veterans are those who served since Korea, who were discharged or separated before August 20, 1952, and who have not yet taken advantage of the GI training benefit.

Under the law, they actually must "enroll in and begin" GI training by August 20, 1954, in order to continue afterwards. The mere filing of an application beforehand, with an intention of starting some time after that date, is not enough, VA said.

VA emphasized that the 1954 cut-off-date applies only to post-Korean veterans who left service before August 20, 1952. Those separated after that date need not concern themselves with the 1954 deadline. Instead, they have two years from the time they left the armed forces in which to get started.

Generally, a veteran is expected to be in the classroom or at the training bench when his GI Bill cut-off-date comes around, if he wants to continue beyond that time.

But so long as he started before the deadline, there will be no objection if he's not actually in training on the cut-off-date because of the normal summer vacation, or for other reasons beyond his control, or for circumstances that VA deems to be excusable.

In fact, he even has the right to suspend his GI training for as long as a year—with part of the suspension coming after the cut-off-date—and still be permitted to resume training afterwards. If he does so, VA will consider that his failure to be in training on the deadline date was for an "excusable reason." The veteran won't be required to account to VA for his absence.

But if the suspension lasts for more than a year, the veteran will have to show VA that the absence in excess of 12 months was caused by conditions beyond his control. In this case, he must have VA's approval before he may go on with his Korean GI Bill studies.

VA said that these cut-off-date rules and regulations apply only to veterans training under the Korean GI Bill. They have nothing at all to do with those in training under the World War II Bill.

To be eligible for Korean GI training, a veteran must meet all three of these requirements:

He must have a separation granted under conditions other than dishonorable.

He must have been on active duty any place in the world—not necessarily in Korea—after June 27, 1950, the date of the outbreak of Korean hostilities.

And he must have had at least 90 days of active service, unless he was discharged sooner because of a service-connected disability.

The Korean GI Bill operates as a one-payment program. For each month of training, the veteran receives a single GI allowance check from VA. With the help of his check, he is expected to meet all his own expenses of training—tuition, fees, books, supplies and the like.

SMALL BUSINESS MAY GET BOOST

Plans are now being made to broaden the scope of the small business assistance programs by enlisting the cooperation of State and local Governments, business and civic groups, Homer F. Potter, top official for the Small Business Administration in California, Arizona and Nevada, said today following his return from a two-day meeting in Washington, D.G.

The meeting, August 22 and 23, was attended by all of the heads of the 13 Regional Offices of the Small Business Administration which succeeds the old Small Defense Plants Administration. Policies and future programs of the new agency were outlined by William D. Mitchell, SBA Administrator, and Harold R. Smethills, Deputy Administrator for Field Operations.

"While much is still in the planning stage," Mr. Potter said, "it is significant that the new Small Business Administration has been assigned by Congress greatly expanded responsibilities when compared with the old Small Defense Plants Administration. It is also clear that most of this responsibility is going to be carried on at the local level, and not centered in Washington."

The primary function of the SDPA, Mr. Potter explained, as to assist small firms engaged in defense or essential civilian activities. However, the new SBA has been assigned the broader—and more complex—job of serving the whole field of small concerns. Whereas SDPA'S activities were limited mainly to small plants among the 300,000 small manufacturing establishments in the United States, SBA's field of asisstance embraces nearly 4,000,000 small firms of all kinds.

"Since the overwhelming proportion of all business establishments are small business, it is clear that the new Small Business Administration will ultimately affect every man, woman and child in the country," Mr. Potter said.

At the same time Mr. Potter emphasized that there is no thought of creating a new Government bureaucracy. On the contrary, the SBA Administrator is determined to build a "strong and lean" organization, streamlined to do an effective job by cooperating with State and local groups.

"I would say that the word 'cooperation' is the keynote of our new organization," Mr. Potter said. "We are going to rely very heavily on the counsel and cooperation of private groups in this area—as we are in every other section of the country.

"By this we mean cooperation between Government and the business community; cooperation between large firms and small ones; cooperation among the various areas of American business and industry such as manufacturing, financing, distribution, transportation, and communications; and last but not least, cooperation between State and Federal Governments.

"The function of SBA is to furnish leadership and assistance to the States and communities. Practical application of plans should be up to the public officials, business and civic leaders at the local level. SBA is engaged in a 'back to the grass roots' effort.

"At the same time, SBA will continue all of the functions of the former SDPA, including sharing of Government orders by small business. And, after September 28, SBA will handle Small Business loan functions of the Reconsrtuction Finance Corporation, with an individual limit of $150,000."

Back of the entire operation, Mr. Potter said, is the determination that the new Small Business Administration can be of maximum service to the people only if it functions as a catalyst, assisting others in accomplishing the big job of bringing effective assistance to all small business, thus helping create new and greater opportunities, new small businesses, and keeping our national economy healthy.

San Francisco To Exhibit At Fair

The great diversity of San Francisco's recreational facilities will be the theme of the exhibit of the City and County of San Francisco at this year's State Fair, Sept. 3-13.

The exhibit, designed and constructed by the J. L. Stuart Manufacturing Co. under supervision of Chief Administrative Officer Thomas A. Brooks, will portray local recreation under headings of sports of all kinds, music, fine arts, science, planetarium, etc., and other recreational activities available both to residents and visitors.

San Francisco is somewhat limited in the nature of its entries in the annual State Fair because it is not an agricultural producing county, though it makes great contributions to California's agricultural development.

"Miss San Francisco"—Miss Sue Fetz—is the city's entrant in the Fair's "Maid of Magic" contest.

Maid Of Magic Contest

Patricia Flocchini of Rohnerville is the Humboldt county representative in the California State Fair Maid of Magic contest. She was chosen by virtue of her title as queen of the Humboldt county Fair. She is 18 years old, is five feet five inches tall, and weighs 118 pounds.

Answers Given To Veterans' Questions

Q.—The son of a friend of mine was killed in an automobile accident on his way to report to his draft board. Would he be covered by the free automatic idemnity paid to survivors of Korean servicemen?

A.—No. Indemnity coverage of selectees is limited to those who died as a result of disabilities incurred while en route from the draft board to the induction station, or who die within 120 days after the incurrence of such disabilities. The coverage does not extend to travel to the draft board.

Q.—I'm planning to sell the house I bought with a GI loan. What can I do to make sure I won't be liable, in case the person who buys the house fails to make his payments?

A.—Generally, you should see to it that the GI loan is repaid in full at the time of the sale. In that way, you will be released from all personal liability. Consult your lender or your VA office for full details.

Q.—I am receiving a VA disability pension. I have just sold my house, but at a price less than what I paid for it. Must I figure the proceeds as income for pension purposes?

A.—No. So long as the house was sold at less than the purchase price, no part of the proceeds of the sale need by considered as income.

Q.—I'm drawing compensation for a service-connected disability I received in Korea. I was on active duty for two years. Am I automatically entitled to vocational rehabilitation training at Government expense?

A.—Not necessarily. One requirement of the law is that you must need the training to overcome the handicap of your disability.

Adagio Dance Group

A famed adagio dance group, the Stuart Morgan Dancers, has been added to the supporting cast of the Phil Harris Show, which will headline the night show entertainment for the final six nights of the California State Fair. They have been featured with many famous performers and bands, and have played a command performance before the King and Queen of England.

Mental Health Society To Confer At Asilomar

Asilomar on the Monterey peninsula will be the setting for a Labor Day weekend conference sponsored by the Mental Health Society of Northern California.

A full program devoted to the theme of "Competition—Its Place In Our Lives" will begin Saturday morning, September 5th, with a preliminary workshop on ways of solving community problems through the varied group processes at our disposal.

Following a barbecue lunch, Dr. J. H. Carwis, Medical Deputy Director of the California Department of Mental Hygiene, will be the opening keynote speaker with an address on "Competition and Mental Health.

Among other speakers developing the theme will be Albert Deutsch, well known author in the field of mental health, and Milton Mayer, recently returned from an extensive tour of Europe where he interviewed many government officials, professional workers and lay people on the temper of Europe today. These interviews have been recorded by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters under the terms of a grant from the Ford Foundation. Mr. Mayer will comment on one of his better known interviews which will be played on Monday morning, at the close of the conference.

The general public may obtain reservations by writing or phoning the Mental Health Society of Northern California at 2015 Steiner street, San Francisco 15, WA. 1-7953.

Use Of Walnut Crop Surveyed

A survey covering the utilization of the 1952 crop of walnuts has been released by the California Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, indicating the crop totaled 75,600 tons.

A total of 56,000 tons of merchantable unshelled nut grades were packed, while culls, blows and orchard run nuts which went to shellers and oil mills totaled 19,100 tons, with 500 tons devoted to other unspecified uses. The crop provided 23,600,000 pounds of shelled walnuts.

The 1953 crop has been estimated at 62,000 tons.

Fort Ross Studied By Archeologists

A group of archeologists from the department of anthropology at the Berkeley campus of the University of California have succeeded in tracing the original stockade boundaries of Fort Ross, site of the old Russian colony founded in 1812 in Northern California.

It is planned that the work done by these scientists will facilitate reconstruction of the compound in the immediate future.

Dr. Adam Treganza and four graduate students worked for three weeks at the site after the Division of Beaches and Parks contracted with the University's Archeologicas Survey group to examine and reaffirm the original boundary lines of the fort.

One of the walls had never been reconstructed; one had been rebuilt in part; another was almost two feet off the original line; and only the south wall's replacement was nearly historically accurate.

The workers found that the chapel, reconstructed some years ago, was almost two feet from where the original structure stood, and they uncovered a square well that was dug many years ago and since filled in. When the well can be pumped out, they expect to find a cache of Russian swords and firearms more than 150 years old, the scientists said.
